

Title: "U.S. Department of Dimensional Structure"

Logo:

Front Page Draft (Modeled after FBI page):

(nav menu): <logo>, "MAIN DIRECTIVE", "WHAT WE DO", "FILE A PRIVATE REPORT", "OUR HISTORY"

(small header below menu): "We protect the American people, and the world."

("articles" in a carousel (all lead to intentionally dead links (pretending like a site outage))) (pieces of research):

1. "UFO struck down off the coast of [REDACTED]" (description): "A [REDACTED]-styled saucer struck down, Intelligence reports no survivors. Of unknown allegiance."
2. "Abductions by [REDACTED] have increased by 500%" (description): "Abductions of human and non-human animals by [REDACTED] have increased in recent centuries, despite peace negotiations with [REDACTED]. Intelligence is discussing solutions."
3. "True meaning of life discovered" (description): "Following millennia of wonder, our researchers, with the help of [REDACTED] and [REDACTED] researchers have finally uncovered the meaning of life."
4. "Existence of Australia in question" (description): "After outages last year of the APO [REDACTED] lasers, study shows that the general public's belief in the existence of Australia has dropped by 17% since. Intelligence is discussing solutions."

5. “Agent’s guide to telekinesis” (description): “Telekinesis has been approved for use by Intelligence for over 30 years, but records indicate only 9% of active agents use it. We looked into why, and sought to dispel some common misunderstandings on how it works.”

About Page Draft:

(title): “Our Intelligence-Given Mission” (paragraph below title): “We’ve been dedicated to protecting you, and the world, for a lot longer than you or I have been around. The U.S. Department of Dimensional Structure has been around since 190031 BE, with humble origins dating back to the [REDACTED] period.”

I haven’t created or found any images to use for the site, but I’m probably going to use AI generated stuff across the page, mostly for the information/news articles.

I don’t really have any items to sell, but I was thinking I could link to the (official) White House gift shop.